During brief absences, my colleagues D.A. Craig, W.G. Evans, and R.H. Gooding attended to editorial matters at my request.

Henri Goulet, Extension Entomologist of my Department, provided French translations of abstracts for most of the papers. This was his last year with us, and I take this opportunity to wish him well in his new position.

Assistance in preparation of illustrations, indexing, and other aspects of production of the journal was provided by J.S. Scott and D. Shpeley, who are members of the technical staff of this Department.

Eileen Pratt, who produced this volume, has terminated her services with this issue. I am pleased to thank her for her contributions and to welcome her replacement, Twyla Gibson, who will assume responsibility for production of Volume 14.
